

Gentex Announces HomeLink(R) as Accessory

November 6, 2013

ZEELAND, MI--(Marketwired - Nov 6, 2013) - Gentex Corporation, (NASDAQ: GNTX), the Zeeland, Michigan-based manufacturer of automotive automatic-dimming rearview mirrors, automotive electronics, dimnable aircraft windows, and fire protection products, today announced that its recently acquired HomeLink® product line is available as a post-production accessory. The announcement was made today during the company's press conference at the 2013 SEMA Show in Las Vegas.

HomeLink is a vehicle-based control system that enables drivers to remotely activate garage door openers, entry door locks, home lighting, security systems, entry gates, and other radio frequency convenience products. HomeLink is currently offered in all automotive brands, is compatible with more than 99 percent of garage door opening systems, and is sold in North America, Europe, Africa, Asia/Pacific and the Middle East.

"As the world's most trusted and used in-vehicle wireless control system, we look forward to bringing the convenience and peace of mind of HomeLink to our accessory customers," said Gentex General Manager of HomeLink, Jim Trainor, "and with the launch of HomeLink V offering easier installation, we are confident that consumers will view HomeLink as a 'must have' feature for total control over their home from their vehicle."

Gentex has been integrating HomeLink into its automatic-dimming rearview mirrors for more than 10 years, and acquired HomeLink from Johnson Controls, Inc., on September 27, 2013, securing Gentex current customer and product offerings in HomeLink mirrors, and enabling new opportunities for Gentex to provide HomeLink for all automotive interior applications, now including accessory.

Safe Harbor for Forward-Looking Statements

This news release contains forward-looking statements within the meaning of the safe harbor provisions of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995.
